EPHESIANS 2:1-10 (KJV) · AUGUST 26, 2026

INSIGHTS

- Spiritual death renders fallen humanity utterly helpless until God sovereignly grants new life (Ephesians 2:1).
- Unregenerate human minds naturally follow demonic structures and worldly cravings prior to awakening (Ephesians 2:2-3).
- Divine wrath represents the natural legal condition of human beings apart from Christ (Ephesians 2:3).
- Rich mercy flows from God's character, driving the resurrection of spiritually dead souls (Ephesians 2:4-5).
- Union with Christ grants believers present spiritual seating within exalted heavenly places today (Ephesians 2:6).
- Future eternity serves as an unfolding showcase for endless riches of divine kindness (Ephesians 2:7).
- Salvation operates as a divine gift, entirely distinct from human merit or effort (Ephesians 2:8).
- Saving faith itself acts as a sovereign grant rather than a human achievement (Ephesians 2:8).
- Human pride is entirely dismantled because redemptive grace excludes all merit-based human works (Ephesians 2:9).
- Believers are divine masterworks, recreated in Jesus Christ specifically to perform good works (Ephesians 2:10).
- Regeneration precedes holy behavior, proving that divine vitality produces genuine human obedience first (Ephesians 2:5).
- Good works function as intended fruit of redemption, never as its purchasing price (Ephesians 2:8-10).
- Sovereign grace acts as the sole foundational cause rescuing fallen humanity from wrath (Ephesians 2:5).
- Transformative spiritual life originates in divine love rather than inherent human moral potential (Ephesians 2:4).
- Pre-ordained pathways of righteousness are sovereignly prepared by God for believers to walk (Ephesians 2:10).
